

B/C's REFEREES SCHOOLS

Hank Nichols (above), NCAA Coordinator of Officials, and Southwest Conference Supervisor Paul Galvan oversee referees at B/C.

June Courteau (above), nationally recognized as the No. 1 official in women's basketball, has refereed the last 7 NCAA national championship games. She also is a top clinician and has participated in the Pan-Am Trials and Olympic Sports Festival.

B/C All-Stars is proud to be associated with 6 of the most prestigious referees schools in America:

- Nationwide Basketball Referees Camp — conducting men's schools at our Georgia and Pennsylvania sites.
- The Referees Camp — conducting women's and men's schools at our Georgia and Pennsylvania sites.
- Southeastern Conference Invitational Officiating Camp — conducting a men's school at our Indiana location.
- Paul Galvan Basketball Officiating Camp — conducting a men's school at our Texas location.

For a detailed look at the directors of each school, see information at right.

Each official works a minimum of 2-3 games per day, with individual evaluations and critiques after each assignment. Tape recorders are used for all critiques, as well as video-tape replay. Camp format features morning skull sessions, films and lectures, as well as game assignments.

Speakers include such notables as Bob Wortman, Big Ten Supervisor of Officials; Norm Van Arsdalen, ECAC Supervisor; and Charlie McCarthy, TransAmerica Supervisor.

Nationwide Basketball Referees Camp

Directors are Hank Nichols, NCAA Coordinator of Officials who's called a record 6 NCAA national championship games; Don Shea, a nationally respected SEC veteran; and Charlie Bloodworth, Sun Belt Supervisor of Officials.

The Referees Camp

Directors are June Courteau, who's officiated the last 6 Final Four women's national championships, and Marcy Weston, NCAA Women's Basketball Secretary Rules Editor.

SEC Invitational Officiating Camp

Director is John Guthrie, Associate Commissioner and Supervisor of Officials for the Southeastern Conference.

Paul Galvan Basketball Officiating Camp

Director is Paul Galvan, Supervisor of Officials for the Southwest and Southland Conferences, who's officiated 4 NCAA title games.